TO GRADUATE 96

INTERMEDIATES WILL HOLD EXERCISES IN AUDITORIUM AT HIGH SCHOOL

One of the largest classes ever graduated from the Intermediate school will hold its graduation exercises in the Union high school auditorium tomorrow night, June 4, at 8 o'clock. This gathering will be of special interest because the graduates have resolved to do away with the customary expensive graduation dress and to appear at the ceremony clad in simple attire. The girls will wear white middy suits with white accessories, green ties and green hair ribbons. The boys will be clad in modest dark suits with green ties.

This is the first class of the eighth grade in the state of California to adopt this sensible solution of the dress problem. The movement for the abolition of the expensive style of graduation dress began in the eastern states and has gradually spread to the Pacific coast. Parents who have gone through the terrible ordeal of providing the old style of graduation dress, which was as expensive as the outfit of a bride, will regret that the new system was not in vogue in their day. The modern parent is fortunate, especially in these days of limited incomes, to escape the burden of providing the old style outfit.

This reform was brought before the parents and teachers in the Intermediate Parent-Teacher association some time ago. A majority voted in its favor and when the proposition was presented to the class, they also approved it.

As the graduating class of 1915 is so large and room has to be provided for the parents of the graduates in the auditorium, it will be readily understood that there will not be many seats for those others who desire to see the ceremony. The seats for the parents of the graduates will take up two-thirds of the seating capacity of the high school auditorium and the public, with the exception of children, will be admitted to the remaining seats. The doors will be open at 7:30.

No flowers or presents for graduates will be received at the school.

Following is the program and list of graduates:

1. Unison solo, "March of the Torch Bearers," Clark . Selected chorus.
2. Cello solo, "Trauliches Beisanmensein," Strube . Eleanor Barrows.
3. Duet, "Water Lilies," Linders . Misses Addison, Baker, Scott, Messrs. Dewar, Verdugo, Williams.
4. Address, Mr. John H. Francis.
5. Trio, "Carmena." Wilson-Mildenberg.
6. Presentation of class, Mr. Richardson D. White.
7. Presentation of diplomas, Dr. J. E. Eckles.
8. Class song. Margaret Pardon . Class of 1915.

PICNIC AT LA RAMADA

MEMBERS OF MOTHERS' CONGRESS MAKE MERRY UNDER HISTORIC PEPPER TREES

Nature was at her best and La Ramada was never more attractive than Wednesday, when members of the first district (Los Angeles county) Congress of Mothers met there to hold the third and last reciprocity day for the current year. Pasadena and Long Beach were the hostesses on the two former occasions, but it was left for Glendale to end the year with a day as nearly perfect as California produces.

Before noon the women began to gather. The occasion began with a basket luncheon served under the ramada on long tables decorated with many bouquets of coreopsis, matilija poppies and white cosmos, these flowers being gold and white, the colors of the Congress of Mothers.

The delegations were greeted at the car by the following officers of the federation, presidents of the associations and presidents-elect:

Mmes. Charles H. Toll, Geo. E. Adams, P. S. McNutt, Jessie A. Russell, A. C. Anderssen, N. C. Kelley, H. W. Yarick, Ella W. Richardson, Frederick Baker, Loretta Morehouse, G. D. Roach, J. W. West, C. D. McLouth, Dr. E. H. Willisford and Miss Eva Daniels.

After greetings by the local federation president, Mrs. Charles H. Toll, responded to by Mrs. Chas. F. Sawyer of Long Beach, Mrs. Chas. H. Ritchie of Burbank, president of the first district, presiding, called for reports of the work from the following federations and associations: Los Angeles, Glendale, Pasadena, South Pasadena, Tropico, La Crescenta, Monrovia, Santa Monica, Savannah, Bellflower, San Pedro and Wilmington.

Mrs. Coral Harrison Sloan gave an original and highly amusing sketch in her inimitable style. This was an account of Semanthy Allen's preparations to attend a meeting of the Congress of Mothers. The audience were insistent in their demands for more, and Mrs. Sloan responded to the enthusiastic encore with a juvenile story of two children whose consciences punished them for neglecting to repeat their prayers.

Another delightful feature of the afternoon was the dancing of the minuet by Dorothy McGinnis and Lois Naudain, Mrs. E. R. Naudain giving the piano accompaniment. This was given in the pleasing Colonial costuming, and the dainty grace of the two young performers formed a picture altogether charming, as they moved in stately time to the music.

It was expected that the national officers, who have been for one week in Southern California, would be present, but they were unable to return from San Diego in time to come, so sent greetings and regrets.

HIT DEADLY WIRE

Road repairs on Central avenue, near Burchett, have been the cause of some painful accidents lately. It appears that the contractor in order to close the street at that place to public traffic, stretched a wire across and at night suspended two lights on the wire. Those lights, it is said, were so far apart that autos did not notice them or at least believed that there was a clear space between them.

Acting under this belief an auto two nights ago ran into this invisible obstruction and came to grief, damaging the machine badly, smashing the windshield and breaking the frame to pieces. Complaint was made to the police concerning this condition of affairs on the avenue.

Wednesday noon another accident took place, when a delivery boy riding on his bicycle was caught under the neck by the wire and thrown to the ground with great violence. The boy was badly hurt and further complaint was made. It is understood that the conditions have been so far remedied that there is now a broad barricade instead of the deadly wire, while the red lights are set closer together at night.

JUMPED FROM TRAIN

Traveling on the Pacific Electric train Wednesday night about eleven o'clock, C. E. Turner jumped from the front platform, between First and Doran streets. He sustained a badly bruised shoulder and a deep gash on his head. Turner is progressing favorably.

HORTICULTURAL CLUB

The preliminary meeting of the proposed Horticultural society will be held next Tuesday evening, June 8, in the council chamber of the City Hall, beginning at 7:45. Everybody welcome. Come and bring suggestions.

PRIZE CONTEST

MARKED INTEREST IS ALREADY BEING SHOWN IN NEWS COMPETITION

Although the announcement of the prize competition inaugurated by the Glendale Evening News has only appeared once, there are already many inquiries into the nature and conditions of the contest. The competition staff is now working diligently on the details which will be published in a very short time.

It is sufficient to say that this contest will be conducted in an honorable and above-board manner; that every competitor will have an equal chance and that no one who enters the contest will be without some compensation for his or her trouble.

The first prize will be a handsome five-passenger touring car, the make to be announced later. The second prize will be a first-class musical instrument. There will be scholarships in various schools for the successful contestants.

Get ready for the fray. The competition to secure these valuable prizes will be keen. This is the opportunity for active and ambitious boys and girls. Read the Glendale Evening News. There you will find the information from day to day as to what is going in the contest and as to who is ahead.

This is a splendid opportunity. Do not miss it.

POMONA COLLEGE TO GET HUNDRED THOUSAND

POMONA, June 2.—The general education board of New York, one of the Rockefeller philanthropies, has announced an appropriation of $100,000 for the Pomona college, Claremont, Cal., according to dispatches received here today.

The appropriation is included in a total appropriation for the purpose of education of $496,550, as follows: To the endowment fund of Vassar college, $200,000; Dennison university, Granville, O., $125,000, and Pomona college, $100,000.

President J. A. Blaisdell of Pomona college said today that he had not received direct notification of the appropriation, but believed that it has been made for endowment for new buildings, the money to be available when the buildings are completed.

Six months ago the college made application for the $100,000 for the purpose of enlarging and constructing new buildings, and it is Dr. Blaisdell's belief that this donation has been made for the purpose.

DOMINANTS TO VISIT

A number of prominent members of the Dominant club of Los Angeles will be present at the reception given by the Robbinette club for the ladies of the Tuesday Afternoon club Friday afternoon, June 18, in the Masonic hall, honoring Mrs. Evelyn Fletcher Copp of Boston.

The club has a select membership of the best known professional musicians of Los Angeles and their presence at the reception as guests of Mrs. Norma Rockhold Robbins, herself a prominent member, makes the affair doubly interesting.

W. C. T. U. MEETING

Miss Hester Nolan, 239 South Isabel street, will entertain the W. C. T. U. tomorrow afternoon, June 4, at 2:30. At 4 p. m. a most interesting program will be given, of which the following are special features:

"Study in Civics," Mrs. Opal Greenwalt.

"Lesson in Scripture Reading," Mrs. Coral Harrison Sloan.

All ladies are invited.

GOES TO CONVENTION

Mrs. J. C. Danford, city librarian, left Wednesday for Berkeley to attend the annual state convention of librarians. Mrs. Danford goes as a delegate from the sixth district and will be absent for about a week. That she should have been chosen to represent this large district is an honor for Glendale as well as for Mrs. Danford.

NEW MANAGER FOR PALACE GRAND THEATER

Walter Jensen, son of Henry Jensen, owner of the Palace Grand theater block, has again taken charge of the Palace Grand theater, the change having taken place the first of June. Young Jensen states that he expects to put on the same class of pictures that he was running formerly and asks a continuance of the patronage that was given him before. He is glad to get back to Glendale and expects to stay here permanently now.

TELLS OF PRISON LIFE

CONVERTED BANDIT GIVES TESTIMONY TO THE SAVING POWER OF CHRIST

Al Jennings made full confession of his tragic career in his first message under the banner of Christ delivered last night at the First Baptist church of this city. All the horror of prison life which followed his arrest and conviction resulting from his escapades as bandit and train robber was described only too vividly. The struggle back to society and profession of law, ending in his remarkable run for governor of Oklahoma, kept his hearers in rapt attention. But the sweetest note of the remarkable confession of his strange life was the beautiful testimony to the experience of Sunday when he yielded his life to Christ. The hearers were tremendously affected and no doubt many a silent prayer ascended to heaven for the preservation and spiritual development of the new convert.

Mr. Jennings made it clear that he did not profess to be a preacher. He certainly was himself. His address revealed how deeply he has read the book of human experience. With a knowledge of the Bible, which he will certainly receive by his association with Pastor Troy, it is confidently expected that he will be a mighty power in the land once he gets started. Few men can hold the attention as can the little orator of Oklahoma and his genuine honesty and directness will render his messages convincing and pointed.

The church was packed to hear the noted speaker. Mrs. Jennings was present. An informal reception was tendered the distinguished couple. On Friday evening Mrs. Jennings will be immersed, making it possible for man and wife to be received into the full fellowship of the church Sunday morning. At the service this evening tickets will be distributed to all who desire to hear Mr. Jennings on Friday and witness the baptism of Mrs. Jennings. Doors will open at 7 o'clock and Mr. Jennings will commence speaking at 8 o'clock.

This evening booze will receive a drastic handling. The connection between crime and liquor will be made clear by leaves from the career of a robber of banks and trains and ex-convert. This will be Mr. Jennings' first temperance sermon. There will be a thrill in every sentence. Temperance workers, specially the W. C. T. U., are urged to be on time, for the message will be of historic interest in the battle for California dry. The student body of the High School will occupy the center of the church auditorium. Mr. C. H. Cunningham will have charge of the music and Miss Maud Salisbury will preside at the piano. Bring your Brown and Curry song books.

Mr. Jennings has promised to tell the story of the life and death of the bandit Zonie this evening. This story shows how possible it is for a man to be damned into this world never having half a chance to live right. Cursed liquor plays an important part in the narrative. Come early and secure a good seat.

Mr. Jennings spoke to the High School students this morning and held the close attention of the students for an hour.

ALUMNI REUNION

CHOIR HAS OUTING

The choir of the First Methodist Episcopal church at Tropico motored to Griffith Park Monday last. The day was delightfully spent by all. Dr. Smith and his brother, Judge Smith, joined the party in the afternoon sports, remaining for the well-prepared evening meal that was spread at 6 o'clock.

SEBASTIAN WINNER

FINAL RESULTS OF LOS ANGELES CITY ELECTION TUESDAY

Tuesday's election in Los Angeles was one of the most hotly contested elections that has ever been held in Los Angeles. The rivalry between the Sebastian and Whiffen factions was very bitter and then, too, the pro and anti-Francis question came up for consideration at the election and was fought out to a finish, only one pro-Francis candidate being elected. Below we publish the votes received by the winning and the losing candidates:

FORGE AND MACHINE

HIGH SCHOOL BOYS LEARNING TO EXPRESS THEMSELVES IN IRON

Glendale High School has a forge shop and a machine shop as excellently equipped for practical work as any commercial shop in Southern California. The students, of whom there are a considerable number, spend usually two hours daily in the shop, but some of them are so enamored of the work that it is with difficulty that Prof. Oliver can get them out at a reasonable hour.

It is only a little more than two months ago that the actual work of the shop was started. In the beginning of the year the boys were themselves working at the installing of the machines. The school has now five lathes, one shaper, two drill presses, work benches, auto pit and tool room. The lathes are what are known as "quick change gear lathes." The boys here get elementary training in lathe practice. They begin by squaring up iron. They learn how to make a draw spike, a plumber's hook and in all this they work from blue prints.

In the forge they are now making small tools, such as wrenches. They form these articles by eye and by hand and thus get one of the most valuable trainings that can be given in youth. The boys take kindly to this work and most of them are eager to be in the shop. Thus far Prof. Oliver has found only one boy who has had no decided talent for this kind of work.

Many of the boys have with their hammers, tongs, anvil and fire worked out all the elementary problems of forge work. A number of "ball bearing jacks," which they have made show the wonderful progress accomplished in the school. Those "jacks" embody every problem that the student will meet for some time to come. They are capable of lifting a weight of one and a half tons.

To see the boys at work is to learn that they must give concentrated attention; must be alert and steady and at the same time have the physical strength necessary for the use of the tools. Their interest is always manifest. They seem to feel that they are doing something practical, not working at mere abstractions.

Following are the boys in the two sections:

Machine shop: Joseph Hartley, Walter Hawkins, Lisle Johnson, Harold Latter, Willard K. Learned, Alvin Sanders, Chase Story, John Stauffacher, E. Marlatt.

Forge shop: Hastings Bidwell, George Dyer, Walter Hawkins, Eldred Marlatt, Hill McGillis, L. C. Rowe, Alvin Sanders, Paul Johnson, Ben Durham, Willard Brown.

RECKLESS DRIVING

Glendale, Cal., June 3, 1915.

There has been a very great deal of reckless and careless driving in Glendale of late, resulting in a number of serious accidents. If drivers of automobiles will adhere strictly to the provisions governing travel and traffic as laid down in ordinance number 222, these accidents will not occur. Every driver should be thoroughly informed as to the provisions of said ordinance, copies of which may be had at the city clerk's office in the City Hall or at the police station. The police officers have been given instructions to strictly enforce said ordinance, especially in regard to fast and reckless driving, and strict compliance with its provisions in regard to street intersections will be required. Section 2 reads as follows and contains the gist of the whole ordinance:

"Every person, riding, driving, propelling or in charge of any vehicle in or upon any street, within the City of Glendale, shall ride, drive or propel such vehicle upon such street in a careful manner, and with due regard for the safety and convenience of pedestrians and all other vehicles upon such street. Pedestrians must not unnecessarily block or impede the passage of any vehicle.

"Any person driving a vehicle upon the public streets in a reckless or dangerous manner is guilty of a misdemeanor, notwithstanding the said vehicle was not exceeding the speed limit."

We earnestly request every auto driver in our city to procure a copy of our traffic ordinance number 222, study it carefully and when driving comply strictly with its provisions. You will thereby insure the public safety as well as your own.

T. W. WATSON,
City Manager.

ADVERTISING—ITS VALUE

It would seem almost superfluous in these days of increased and increasing publicity to advise the public regarding the value of advertising. Nevertheless, there still exists a considerable section of the inhabitants of every semi-rural community that is barely alive to the advantages of setting forth its wares or its wants through the medium of a local newspaper.

Quite a number of the people around us have been raised in the quiet and seclusion of agricultural communities where the modern system of advertising has only imperfectly made its influence known. To such as those it appears that when they have something to sell, or desire to purchase something, every one should intuitively know about their desires or intentions. Nothing, however, is farther from fact that such imaginary conditions.

A glance at the advertising columns of the daily papers ought to convince any reasonable person that those who are abreast of the age use the columns of the newspapers as the best medium for obtaining what they want, or of selling what they seek to dispose of. One of the most important functions of a newspaper is to act as a medium for bringing people together and making their wants mutually known. Up-to-date people make constant use of the advertising columns of the papers for this purpose. They know that it is the best means for furthering their business.

The person who has something to sell advertises it because he knows that those who are in need of that kind of thing are in the habit of looking in the advertising columns devoted to that particular want in order to ascertain where they may get it. If advertising did not bring results there would be no advertising. Business men know that their sales are increased by advertising; and by experiment they have also learned that the moment they cease advertising their sales drop.

All the leading businesses in the United States have been built up greatly by the judicious use of advertising. The most important thing to learn in advertising is where to place publicity to greatest advantage. In a semi-rural community the best medium for advertising is the local newspaper that has the largest circulation and consequently reaches the greatest number of people. If that paper happens to be a daily then its value as an advertising medium is vastly increased, for then the advertiser gets immediate action and every day in the week if he so chooses.

If you have for sale something which you think everybody wants, advertise it and you get its merits before the very people whom you desire to approach. To get the greatest benefit from advertising one should advertise often enough to produce the desired effect. A modern bishop said to a modern clergyman, "If you want the people to believe you are the greatest preacher in the district tell them so every time you appear in public. They will end by believing you."

There was shrewd wisdom in that advice. By dint of judicious advertising many common articles have become so well known everywhere that instinctively one thinks of them when the need for that kind of merchandise arises.

Use your local newspaper for advertising your wants and telling the public what you have to offer them. Let your goods answer to your advertised descriptions and you will establish your business in the affections of the public. A business man who does not advertise is burdening himself with a serious handicap and is likely to see his neighbor who knows the value of publicity getting the cream of public patronage.

MECHANICAL ARTS IN SCHOOL

Glendale Union High School ranks high among the educational establishments of the country. Its certificates admit its pupils without examination to most of the leading colleges of the land. Its curriculum is up to date and efficient; set on a good foundation and judiciously broadened to suit all needs.

Among the excellent features to be found in the High School is the Mechanical Arts department. The work done there under the direction of Professors Oliver and Hildebrand is not only excellent, but has also attained a degree of perfection rarely found in connection with a high school. It would be impossible to overrate the value of the manual training given in the department of Mechanical Arts in Glendale High School. The work done by the boys there shows evidence of thorough training.

This work is not a mere smattering of haphazard handiwork. It begins at the beginning and each task set the pupils is built on ground principles, and from the first piece of turned steel or wood to the more complicated products of forge and lathe hangs together like the steps of a mathematical problem.

Boys trained in that department have a thorough knowledge of the principles that go to make skilled mechanics and should find themselves at the close of their course able to hold their own in any department of mechanical production.

When the excellence of this training becomes properly known we may look to see a very much larger number of the High School boys taking advantage of the course. The mechanical knowledge and skill imparted there will stand them in good stead all through life and will inevitably impart thoroughness to everything they undertake.

AMERICAN EMIGRANTS TO CANADA

Since Aug. 4, 1914, no fewer than 30,000 American agriculturists have emigrated from the United States to Canada. This movement is being steadily fostered by the Canadian government, which is offering special inducement to skilled farmers to settle in the Dominion. Canada feels that the greater the number of persons engaged in farming operations the better will it be able to provide the food supply required in these times of stress by the British empire and its allies.

Canada stands well to the front among the wheat-producing areas of the world and is yearly increasing the area of its wheat-producing fields. What it needs is skilled agriculturists. Since the war broke out in Europe immigration to Canada from the mother country and from continental Europe has practically ceased. Between Aug. 1, 1914, and April 30, 1915, the British immigrant arrivals were only 12,000 and the continental arrivals only 3700.

There is much excellent land in Canada to be obtained on very encouraging terms and Americans are seemingly alive to that fact. The influx of American settlers increases yearly and those who go are of the most enterprising class and usually have considerable capital. Most of this emigration goes to the western states of Canada and usually it is only a very few years before the American settler is not merely comfortably off, but is making money rapidly.

In some ways it seems a pity that the United States should lose any of its own people; especially that it should lose those whom American advantages have placed in a position to have benefits to confer on the contiguous territory of the Dominion. In the end, however, the whole movement should bring about a consolidation of the different interests of the northern and southern halves of North America; improve the relations of the two countries and strengthen the friendly feeling that already exists between the two great English-speaking divisions of this continent.

JAPAN AND AUSTRALIA

Japan seems to be the one nation, if we except the United States, which is profiting largely by the war in Europe. While the United States is reaping large financial profit from the war Japan is steadily improving her position in the Far East as an interpreter of western civilization in the Orient. She is also improving her status with Australia which for a long time regarded her with strong suspicion and even hostility.

On the Japanese question Australia for a long time thought a good deal like Western Canada. Now Australians think and speak more kindly of their Japanese neighbors. Japan fulfilled her pledges to Great Britain by besieging and taking Kiao-Chow from Germany. She also took the German Marshall islands, the Carolines, Pelews and Ladrones and promptly turned them over to the Australian troops for occupation until the end of the war. That has greatly altered Australian sentiment.

Australia is now encouraging closer trade relations with Japan and that country is likely to fall heir to all the trade that Germany had laboriously built up with Australia. Japan is also in a position to promise to buy thirty times as much Australian wool as heretofore and also will open up a large market for Australian metals.

All this has brought a feeling of friendship and confidence between the two countries and has set at rest, for all time, it may be hoped, the suspicion that Japan sought territorial extension at the expense of the southern continent. Even Japan's aspirations with regard to China are likely to work toward a better feeling between the two countries as they point to the application of Japanese ambition to another quarter of the world than Australia.

What is of more interest to the United States than all this, however, is the increasing importance of the nations on the other side of the Pacific. The struggle for supremacy in that mighty ocean has begun and it is not easy to foretell the end. That struggle intimately concerns the United States and should seriously engage the attention of American statesmen.

A SUBMARINE'S TORPEDO

I am the sea devil's daughter,
Spawned where the dead men dwell.
I shoot from the hissing water,
A lance from the prince of hell!
And ever I come to slaughter
As mermaids ring a knell!

The pride of the seas of Britain
Is the wreck of a huckster's cart—
Smitten as whales are smitten
When the swordfish dares to dart!
The little gray shark has bitten
A hole in the kraken's heart!

I am the eel of lightning;
I blast whatever I strike.
The sea top fishes frightening
As the shark affrights the pike!
Oh, but the bones are whitening
Of things I did not like!

I am the babe of the devil!
Deep hidden I skulk and lie,
Till a liner laughs in revel
And then I dart on high
And kiss with the kiss of evil,
And what I kiss must die!
—John O'Keefe.

FORCE OF DROPS OF WATER

It seems almost incredible that so small a thing as a drop of rain should injure the propellor of an aeroplane, but such is the case. At so great a speed does the propellor revolve—1200 revolutions a minute, as a matter of fact—that a rain drop hits it with such enormous force as to chip a piece of the wood away. Some idea of the hardships entailed by flying through the rain at sixty miles an hour may be gathered from the fact that an aviator who recently went through such a nexperience alighted with the edge of his propellor fretted as though it had been gnawed by rats. The rain drops had chipped pieces out of the blades and also bruised the aviator's face, owing to the force with which they hit his flesh.—London Spectator.

PERSONALS

Mrs. Clara N. Chapman of Dillon, Montana, is spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Lilly at their home on Louise street. Mrs. Chapman is a cousin of Mrs. Lilly.

R. L. Hendricks and family of 804 Fifth St. and B. A. Bull motored to San Diego Sunday and returned Tuesday evening. They reported that there was a very small crowd at the exposition on Memorial day

Miss Louise Kohler of Monaca, Pa., who has been visiting friends in Pasadena, arrived in Glendale this week to spend a couple of days at the home of Mrs. M. L. Potter, 321 Everett street.

T. W. Preston of 725 Adams street is usually among the first on the market with all kinds of fruit. This morning he left a sample of delicious peaches at The News office, the first of an early variety to ripen.

The Glendale Philanthropic Sewing club met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Ernest Bode, 306 Orange St. and spent the afternoon as usual in sewing for charity. This worthy organization will hold its next meeting with Mrs. McRae, 1436 Salem St.

Mr. A. G. Sharp and family of Colorado Springs, Colorado, were in Glendale yesterday for a short visit. Mrs. Sharp is a niece of Mr. Joseph Denney of Verdugo road. Mr. Sharp is president of the Exchange National bank of Colorado Springs, this being the institution with which J. F. Lilly of this city was associated before coming to Glendale. The Sharps motored from Colorado Springs by way of the Grand Canyon, and left this morning for San Francisco.

"DEAD" SOLDIER AWOKE

Major Samuel A. Losch of Pennsylvania once told the following remarkable episode of the Civil war:

After the charge in the fight at the Weldon road, in which his regiment participated on August 19, 1864, Co. F had but two men left, named McManus and Kull. These men, under command of (then) Sergeant Losch, were among those on picket duty during the night. McManus had gone beyond the line and was behind a tree when a flash of lightning revealed his whereabouts to Kull, who, mistaking him for a Confederate, fired and shot McManus in the head. Kull's mistake was discovered and his comrade's body was carried to the rear, covered with a blanket and placed on the ground, a supposed dead Union soldier.

Next morning while a party of the regiment were seated around the campfire discussing hardtack and coffee in close proximity to McManus' body, the blanket was seen to move and directly, to the great consternation of the party, McManus rose up, walked to the fire and asked for a cup of coffee. After his comrades had recovered themselves, they returned to the fire and accommodated the resurrected McManus. He was badly wounded, however, and was sent to a hospital. The operation of trepanning was performed and the soldier recovered.

Judge Willis in granting two women their liberty said, "If you were men nothing could have saved you from prison." Absolute equality doesn't seem to have arrived yet.

NORTH GLENDALE

Mrs. Clara Robinson of 1528 Lorraine street entertained with a children's party her Sunday school class last Tuesday afternoon. The little folk had a most delightful time playing games dear to childhood and delicious refreshments, consisting of assorted cakes and fruit punch, were served them by the gracious hostess who was assisted in entertaining by her sister, Mrs. Ella Steele, and Miss Helen Bettis. Those who enjoyed the happy occasion included Masters Merle Rice, Ralph Eckles, Ronald West, Ralph Rhynd and Misses Doris Gregory, Madeline Aer, Dorothea Winslow, Margaret Robinson, Frances Drake, Edna Muller, Helen Dimick, Gertrude Mosley, Gladys Hollingsworth and Alice Dewey.

Mr. Howard Alston and Mr. William Rising of East Twenty-ninth street, Los Angeles, were in North Glendale Wednesday and were guests of Mr. Alston's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Alston of Valley View road.

Miss Edith Alley of 139 South Brand boulevard leaves Friday morning for San Francisco, where she will view the exposition and will also visit relatives in Oakland, Cal. From there Miss Alley will go back to her former home in Aberdeen, S. D., where she will remain indefinitely. This popular young lady has many friends in Glendale who wish her a safe and happy journey.

Mrs. C. P. McCann and daughter, Miss Maysie McCann, formerly of West Seventh street, Glendale, are now occupying the Joseph L. Wheeler property, located at 833 Campbell street.

Mrs. Alvin Rossan of Everett St. was the guest of Mrs. I. C. Rice of 1632 Ruth street at luncheon Wednesday.

Mr. J. Bike of Pasadena was in North Glendale the first of the week looking after his extensive property interests on Dryden street.

NOTICE TO ALUMNI MEMBERS

There will be an important meeting of the G. U. H. S. Alumni association next Saturday night, June 5, at 8 o'clock at the high school. This meeting will be for the purpose of perfecting plans for the senior initiation later in June. Come and bring your ideas. 245t4

TO BUILD FINE HOME

C. W. Kent & Son have taken the contract to build a fine house and garage for C. H. Sanders on North Brand boulevard near the end of the carline. This home will be up-to-date in every feature and will cost about $4000. Work will begin this week.

TRUTH STRANGER THAN FICTION

The beautiful poem of Enoch Arden may have seemed unreal to many readers, but here comes an actual story of real life that goes to show after all, truth is stranger than fiction.

Anselmo Sosa, of Santa Ana, after having been declared dead following his disappearance twenty years ago, re-appeared some two weeks ago to find his wife married again. Unlike Enoch Arden of Tennyson, Sosa did not gaze upon his satisfied spouse and her family and then steal away. No, he did nothing so fine as that.

He made a great uproar. But he was "legally" dead. The problem was, how to bring him back to life again. Finally his wife, now Mrs. Bruce of Berkeley, signed a paper admitting his identity. Sosa wants to get possession of some San Diego property and apparently is not trying to secure possession of his wife. She will fight his application on the ground that he has been absent so long that he has no claim now on the property.

TO CLEAN JEWELRY

Most people possess a little jewelry of some sort, and its appearance greatly depends upon the attention bestowed upon it. When not in wear it should be kept in cotton, wool or other covering to protect it from the air.

All plain gold bangles, bracelets, brooches and other articles of jewelry may be cleaned by washing in a lather of soap and water. They should be well dried with a towel, and gentle rubbing with chamois leather will serve to give an additional polish. Diamonds may be cleaned by rubbing with eau de cologne. If very dirty they must be brushed very gently with warm water and a little soap. The preparation known as "jewelers' rouge," to be obtained from the jewelers, is very good for polishing gold and diamond ornaments. Pearls and turquoises should never be allowed to go into water; turquoises in particular are liable to lose their color if exposed to the wet. These stones can be cleaned with methylated spirits. Opals are stones which require particular care; they should never be exposed to much heat, as this often makes them crack. They should be cleaned with powder to be obtained from the jewelers for the purpose.

For cleaning jewelry set with small pearls, rub well with chamois leather, and if very dirty apply a little whiting with a small brush. Little boxes containing chamois leather and cleaning material for jewelry can be bought at any of the large stores. Jet may be cleaned by rubbing with olive oil and polishing with a chamois leather.

GRIFFINS ENTERTAIN—ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED—OTHER TROPICO ITEMS

Mrs. Joseph V. Griffin and son, Jim, entertained with a Tennessee dinner party at their home on Acacia street Wednesday noon, when the sixteen guests were all former residents of Tennessee, some of them having resided in California a number of years, others but a few months, while Mrs. Adam Bowman Crouch and her sons, Charles, Edwin, Billy, Joe and Gordon Crouch of Johnson City, and for whom the dinner was given have but recently arrived from Tennessee for a few months' visit in California.

Many Shasta daisies had been gathered from Mrs. Griffin's garden and arranged most effectively throughout the residence.

Other guests whom Mrs. Griffin most graciously entertained with Mrs. Crouch and sons were Mrs. W. Jeans, Mrs. Charles Chamberlain and Miss Vera Chamberlain, Mrs. R. Stanley Simpson, Miss Leola and Miss Alberta Simpson of Los Angeles, Mrs. Karl Overholzer and son Charles Overholzer of Mulholland and Mrs. Hattie Boring of Tropico.

Mrs. Allen Ellsworth Boyce of 506 South Brand boulevard entertained with a most charming muicale at her home Monday afternoon, when the engagement of her sister, Miss Julia Arvilla Byloff, and Mr. Charles Stewart of Los Angeles was announced.

The beautiful home of the hostess was elaborately decorated in quantities of pink and white Killarney roses. There were roses everywhere, nodding from vases, peeping from baskets and overflowing low cut bowls.

A splendid program of instrumental and musical numbers by Miss Julia Byloff and Miss Helen Beatrice Cooper was rendered while Miss Pearl Henderson of Hollywood also added to the program by giving several of her most delightful readings. After the guests had enjoyed the delicous luncheon which followed the program, a handsome Maltese cat, peeping from a bag, was brought into the room where the guests were seated and there liberated. A large card was fastened around the cat's neck, which, upon being examined, was discovered to bear the names, Miss Julia Arvilla Byloff and Mr. Charles Stewart. Then it dawned upon all that the "cat was really out of the bag."

Congratulations were extended the handsome blushing bride to be. Guests included prominent society ladies of Los Angeles, Hollywood, Glendale and Tropico.

A most important business session was held at the residence of Mrs. Wesley H. Bullis Wednesday morning by the directors of the Tropico Thursday Afternoon club.

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Rice of Central avenue are enjoying a most delightful sojourn at their beach home in Venice. Mr. Rice has but recently returned from a ten days' visit at his ranch near Lindsay.

Mr. Jay Rice of Lindsay, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Rice, will join his parents at Venice for a few weeks' vacation.

Mrs. Jane Ritchie motored with a party of friends to Ventura Monday where a most delightful day was enjoyed.

Major J. J. Weiler of Acacia street was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Burnett at their home in Los Angeles Wednesday.

Mr. Henry Koepke of Altena, Oregon, a former resident of Tropico, called upon a number of his old time friends here Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. David H. Imler of Palm Villa has returned from a week's visit in Imperial valley. After brief business visits in El Centro and Imperial Mrs. Imler visited Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Engelhardt at their home, Vista de Alba rancho, near Brawley.

BRYANT'S POETIC CAREER

Bryant was nearly twenty-three years old when "Thanatopsis" was first printed in the North American Review. So much has been said about the astounding precocity of this poet and so many errors have accumulated around the publication of his masterpiece that it way be well to state the facts.

We know just two facts about this work. First, it was published when Bryant was almost twenty-three—not young for a poetic genius; second, that in its original published form in the North American Review it is not a remarkable poem.

It was in the 1821 edition of Bryant's poems, when the author was twenty-six or twenty-seven, that the work first appeared in its universally known form. Only a few minor changes were made after that date. This disposes of the generally accepted statement that "Thanatopsis" is a juvenile masterpiece.

Bryant was, however, a precocious poet, although his precocity is not displayed in his greatest work. One of the most extraordinary facts about his poetical career is that he actually published verse during the administration of Thomas Jefferson and Rutherford B. Hayes. So long a period and so slender an output speak well for his fastidious taste.

"Now own up, my man. Didn't you invent that tale of woe?"

"No, sir; I got it from a friend who has gone out of the begging business."

SANDY REASONED WELL

Sandy McEwen is six years old. The other day a girl baby was born in the family across the way. Said Sandy, worldly wise:

"The first week I s'pose she'll have a birthday ev'ry day. The first month she'll have one ev'ry week. The first year she'll have one ev'ry month. After that she'll have one ev'ry year forever and ever."

"No, dear—only till she dies," corrected an older member of the family

"Is that so?" answered Sandy scornfully. "Ain't George Washington been dead for quite some time, and ain't he having birthdays yet?" —Cleveland Plain Dealer.

WILLARD MACK'S FORMER WIFE TO APPEAR IN LOS ANGELES

Maude Leone's postponed engagement at Pantages adds a special attraction to next week's program at that theater. The actress arrived from San Francisco Friday afternoon and has been visiting friends in Hollywood while recuperating from her illness. "Inside Stuff," a one-act play written for her by Willard Mack, is the fourth vaudeville playlet by Mr. Mack in which she has appeared and according to advance announcement is the best of the series. It is the story of a police frame-up that failed.

"The Garden of the Rajah" brings a bevy of Mormon beauties with Charles Kent and David Reese. The Rajah has a new wife in view and an American newspaper correspondent is on the trail of the same elusive beauty. When Rajah and reporter meet there is comedy, music and mystery. Salt Lake City has sent her prettiest misses with this act. Costuming, music and dancing are oriental in effect, while the comedy is exclusively modern and occidental.

A novelty singing and dancing act is offered by the three Shentons. Florence Modena and company bring a comedy of the most modern metropolitan type, entitled "Bargain Mad," said to be induced by reading mail order catalogues. The other names on the program are Jane Barber and Joe Jackson, conversational comedians, and Aiken Figg and Duffy programmed as the Jolly Songsters.

FUR IN JULY

Feminine fashions are always more or less idiotic, every one admits that, even the women who invent them, but this new one of wearing fur in summer is almost too much for the most patient of the sex.

Only a heroine would appear on a sweltering day with a boa of fox fur cuddled about her troat. And yet that is what threatens. The windows of the New York shops are at this moment filled with fur boas intended for summer wear, and perspiring ladies stand and gaze at these in ecstacy as they mop their dampened brows and fan themselves with guazy fans.

The other day there appeared at a meeting of a garden club a young woman clad in a new gown which had just come from one of the smartest shops in New York. It was made of material precisely like that of which men's gauze undershirts are woven, and it consisted of a plaited skirt and a Russian blouse. The bottom of the blouse was trimmed with a band of white fur two inches wide, while around the neck of the wearer was a white boa of fox. She wore upon her head an immense hat of pink straw bearing a wreath of pink roses.

It must be admitted that the toilette as a whole was exceedingly chic, but it must also be told that the lady surreptitiously made much use of the fan she carried.

But after all, who expects to be smart and comfortable at the same time?

MONKEY ANTICS

In hotels and private houses of India monkeys have been found that were trained to wait at table, bringing dishes and articles of food in a more or less mechanical way.

The story of the talented orang outang of Buffon, the naturalist, is classic. This creature gave visitors his arm, walked with them, showed them to the door, ate with a knife and fork and drank from a glass, poured tea into a cup, sweetened it and waited till it cooled before he drank it.

An orang outang at the Jardin des Plantes in Paris regularly unlocked with a key the door of the compartment he occupied, opened the door, locked it on the other side after he had entered and then hung the key on a nail.

Flourens relates that he once visited the Jardin des Plantes in company with an aged scholar whose appearance greatly interested this orang outang, which was at large in the rooms of the institution. The scholar wore old clothes, one article of which was a tall hat with a wide brim. He was much bent from age and in walking supported himself with a heavy cane.

When the two men were about to depart the hat and cane of the old man were missing. Presently the orang outang was seen tottering the room, his back bent almost double, wearing the hat upon his head and walking stiffly by the aid of the cane.

The nine-foot sheet bill was no freak measure. On the contrary it favors sanitation and good health.

Lord Kitchener seldom ventures to express an opinion, but doubtless he has one concerning Lord Northcliffe.

No use to sympathize with shivering Chicago. If not shivering it would be frantically wiping its perspiring brow.
